

Article publishing charge

Dear Authors!

Our primary goal is to promote your scientific results. We do that by publishing your content promptly and up to the mark. To pursue this goal, we have to change our publication fee policy.

All articles published in Foods and Raw Materials will keep their Gold Open Access status, i.e., they are and will be available on our website for reading and downloading without restrictions, payment, or embargo period.

All articles submitted and accepted after October 1, 2025, require a publishing charge of 80,000 rubles per article for Russian citizens and 1,000 US dollars for foreign authors, regardless of volume, language, graphics, etc. Submission and peer review are free of charge, which means that you pay the article publishing charge only after you have received a positive review and your manuscript have been accepted for publication by the Chief Editor.

The article processing charges cover the costs for editing (Ru, En), post-review technical processing, DOI assignment, online hosting and maintenance, indexing in academic databases, and publishing.

The corresponding author manages the payment. Publications can be financed by any stakeholders, e.g., authors, universities, research organizations, grant funds, etc.

The manuscript acceptance email contains the payment deadline and documents, i.e., Agreement for Provision of Editorial and Publishing Services, which you fill in and send us by e-mail or regular mail (two copies). The Agreement form is different for legal entities and individuals. To confirm the payment, you email us a scan of the payment receipt.

Please note that prepayment does not guarantee publication. Should you make an advance publishing charge payment and your article receives a negative review, we will return the money, minus bank commissions. If your manuscript has been accepted for publication, please make sure that you keep the payment deadline because we cannot publish your manuscript until the money has arrived in the account of Kemerovo State University.

We will refund the publication fee if an error on our part has violated the open access model and we fail to correct it within 30 business days of posting. If you become aware of an error in the open access or licensing status of your article, please contact us immediately.

However, no article publication charges will be refunded if the retraction occurred as a result of your own error or misconduct.

The publication fee is subject to change and is made at the rate in effect on the date you submitted your manuscript. We inform our authors about publication fee changes on our website 30 days in advance.

The Journal has no fee waiver policy. We do not provide copyright issues and pay no royalties.

We express our deepest gratitude for all your support over the years and hope that you will continue to consider Foods and Raw Materials as a platform that introduces your research results to the global scientific community.
